With F.M.I.

Truth is stranger than fiction. Imagine someone writing a TV scenario or short story about three men, still on the run, who fly a plane leased in Mississippi from Mexico to Central and North Central Texas with a cache of marijuana.

They are chased in the air by a U. S. Customs plane who apparently saw them land in Cameron or perhaps McGregor or Hillsboro, where the Lockheed Lodestar was abandoned. The airstrip at McGregor was strewn with sacks of marijuana, or they are certain it is the stuff, uncut.

Imagine someone writing in a scene where the plane drops down, as it apparently did in McGregor, dumped sacks and sacks of the stuff on the runway, leaving skid marks on the runway that suggests a fast airplane getaway.

Imagine then stories of a man getting off in Cameron who authorities cannot identify or find and whose existence is doubtful, stories that some 40 sacks or more of marijuana also are strewn in the Cameron area, but which customs authorities say is not so.

Imagine writing a scene in which the hunted plane screeches to a halt in Hillsboro, yields two men who race to a waiting car, to vanish somewhere in the Fort Worth-Dallas area.

If I wrote something like that, it would be good entertainment, but have little credibility.

But, sure enough, such a development unraveled at mid-week last week and no one yet knows who or why the attempt was so boldly made. The U. S. Customs authorities know whom they seek. And when some charges are made, maybe we'll find out who planned this escapade covering a good part of Texas and stirring comment across the Southwest.

We've heard of "pie in the sky," but marijuana-loaded airplanes running international borders? That's something new.

TESTING CONTINUES on Luling Oil and Gas Company's well just south of Milano.

Luling Oil Tests CN Wildcat

By Loyd Albertson

The Cherokee Navarro Field area continues to be the center of drilling activity in south Milam County, with the completion of one wildcat and another recently drilled wildcat having tests run on it during the weekend.

The wildcat is the Luling Oil & Gas Company's No. E-1 H. H. Coffield. The San Antonio based company scheduled it early in July as an Austin Chalk test permitted to 6,500 feet. According to oil patch rumor the drilling crew was coring the wildcat around 6,300 feet late last week.

Location of Luling Oil & Gas' wildcat is on a 224 acre lease and in John Dunlop Survey, approximately four miles south of Milano. It is just off Highway 36.

Tom Smith, with Luling Oil and Gas production department, is in charge of the drilling operation.

The recently completed wildcat was drilled by Byron Rose, independent operator with headquarters in Austin, and is his No. 1 Mrs. Viola Lagrone Sefcik. Reportedly it has had pipe set on it and a pump installed. No report was available about its potential test, if one has been run.

Alcoa Receives Powder Contracts

A contract for $1,902,847.68 worth of chemical aluminum powder to be produced by the Aluminum Company of America plant in Rockdale was awarded Monday by the Naval Supply Systems Command, Cong. W. R. Poage announced in Washington.

The product is an atomized aluminum powder used for paint pigments, aluminum powder metallurgy and a number of chemical products.

Rockdale is one of three Alcoa aluminum powder plants in the United States and is the most modern.

Buckholts Man Killed By Car

A Buckholts man became Milam County's ninth traffic fatality when he was killed crossing the highway at Buckholts at 10:31 Sunday night.

He was Fred D. Phillips, of Route 2, Buckholts. He was crossing the highway in the westbound lane of Highway 36 when he was struck by a car driven by Roger Allen Sloop of Killeen. Sloop was traveling west and told investigating officers the headlights of an oncoming car prevented him from seeing Phillips in the road.

Justice of the Peace Jess Brock of Cameron ruled the death accidental. Investigating Highway Patrolman Leroy Braodus said the accident appeared to be unavoidable. The inquest was held at 11 p.m. at Buckholts.

The body was taken to Gommert Funeral Home in Rogers and later transferred to Phillips and Luckey Funeral Home in Rockdale.

Voters in the November 7 general election will be faced with 14 proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. The following is the first of these amendments analyzed by the Texas Legislative Council. The Herald will publish one amendment each week for the enlightenment of voters.

AMENDMENT NO. 1--H.J.R. NO. 58

(Amending Article III, Section 24, of the Texas Constitution to provide annual salaries of $8,400 for members of the senate and house of representatives.)

The proposed amendment to Article III, Section 24, increases the annual salary of members of the Texas Legislature from $4,800 to $8,400. No changes are made in mileage or per diem allowances.

Background

During the early days of Texas, the legislature was permitted to set its own rates of compensation except that no increase in salary could take effect during the session at which the increase was voted. However, the heavy expenditures of the Reconstruction Government prompted the fram-

The Sefcik is located on a 29 acre lease in John Williams Survey and is on the southwest edge of the Cherokee Navarro Field. Rose scheduled the wildcat in late April.

Drillsite for the Sefcik is 2,050 feet east and slightly north of Rose's recent Austin Chalk discovery, the No. 1 Herald Hood. This well was the pay opener for a new oil-bearing formation in Milam County.

The Hood, located on a 32 acre lease in John Williams Survey, was reported to have flowed 27.65 barrels of oil per day on potential test through perforations at 5,652 - 670 and 5,680 - 696 feet. But according to one rumor it recently has been producing better, flowing by heads at around 40 barrels per day.

County Confirms 4th Rabies Case

The fourth case of rabies in Milam County has been confirmed in Austin by the State Health Department lab, according to Rod Holcombe, county health officer.

The cases included one of a house cat, two skunks, and one calf. All animals died.

Holcombe advised that all pet owners get their animals vaccinated if they have not received rabies vaccination within the past year.

Dates Set For Cleanup Week

The city is set for a good house-cleaning next Thursday and Friday when trucks from the highway department, county, and city will pick up trash and junk from all areas. The week of August 7 was set as cleanup week by Mayor Gene Blake at a regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening.

Blake said "anything that can be loaded into a truck" will be picked up, including discarded appliances, old lumber, brush, and any kind of trash that is making a nuisance of itself.

Residents are urged to start the cleanup Monday by putting items to be picked up out in front of their homes, and it will all be gathered and dumped Thursday and Friday. Volunteers will help state, county, and city workers in the general cleanup.

"We hope all residents take pride in their community and will cooperate to make this a successful effort," Mayor Balke said.

In other business, the council was told by Mayor Balke that a drainage project for Crockett, financed 80-20 by the Economic Development Administration (EDA) is in the works again, with the project now approved and awaiting funding. The project had been turned down last year.

Blake said the $125,000 project will be sent to Washington for approval of funds, and work may begin within 60 days. Then the city can pave Crockett as was planned.

Injured Youth Hurt In Second Accident

One Cameron youth is listed in critical condition and a Cameron woman listed in serious condition in a Waco hospital following a two-car collision early Monday morning near Temple.

In critical condition at Providence Hospital is Michael Sanders, 12, of 905 W. 5th St., Cameron, while Mrs. Dorothy Taylor of 400 W. Nolan is in serious condition at the same hospital.

According to investigating highway patrolman Holly Tull of Temple, the cars collided about 2 and one-half miles south of Temple on State Highway 36 near the intersection of Highway 95. The accident occurred shortly after 1 a.m. Monday. Tull said the cars collided 300 yards from the intersection.

Both cars carried residents of

The mayor had another proposal for Lone Star Gas Co. in its seeking a rate increase, but no representatives of the company were present at the meeting.

Council heard a request from the O. J. Thomas alumni association to have a parade on August 12. Permit was granted for the parade.

The county has agreed to pay the city a flat fee of $800 a year for rural firecalls, instead of being billed by the call. This will enable the city to budget the funds for purchasing new fire equipment.

Council also discussed extending city sewer lines on the north end of the city, following request by the Starlight Club for the service.

The first reading of an ordinance rezoning lots in the Culpepper Addition from R1 to R2 was heard, and council accepted a bid from a Waco firm for firemen's boots and a bid from Monroe Corbin for loader tires.

LL Tourney

The Cameron Little League invitational tourney will be held at the Little League Field August 3, 4, and 5, with teams competing including Rogers, Rosebud, Cameron Apaches, Rockdale All Stars and the Waco Boys Club. Games will be at 6:30 and 8:30. Trophies will be awarded Saturday to a 9 man all-star team.

Cameron. Three persons were reported injured in the crash, including Sanders' sister, Doris Brazell of Cameron.

The injured were treated and released from Scott and White Hospital, Temple.

Michael was being rushed to Scott and White Hospital in Temple by relatives after being injured in an accident in Cameron. He was riding on the trunk of a car with some other youngsters when it went out of control and he fell off, hitting a tree.

The car was driven by Marlin Miller of Cameron. The accident occurred about 12:10 Monday morning.

Police Chief Felipe Martinez and Officer Frank Kovar investigated the accident.

Proposed Amendment Would Raise Salaries

legislative compensation were rejected by Texas voters in 1965, 1968, and 1969. A proposal to let a commission set legislative compensation was also rejected in 1970.

ARGUMENTS

For:

1. The legislator can no longer be considered a part-time official. Increasing complexity in the problems of state government and greater expenditure of time as a member of standing and special interim committees meeting between session leaves the legislator little time to devote to his private business or profession. The $4,800 annual salary now provided in the constitution is scarcely adequate to meet present-day costs of living.

2. Many qualified persons do not become candidates for legislative seats because they are unable or unwilling to make the financial sacrifice involved in service at the present constitutional salary. Raising the salary of members of the house of representatives and the senate to a more realistic level would provide a greater incentive for public service.

Against:

1. A substantial pay increase for members of the legislature would further increase the costs of state government at a time when state finances are already overburdened in meeting the expanding needs of a growing population.

2. Under the constitution the legislature is required to meet in regular session not to exceed 140 days every two years. Thus the job of a legislator is not a full-time job and the official holding a seat in the house of representatives or the senate should not receive a full-time salary.

3. Because of high campaign costs, a potential legislative candidate without substantial financial resources would still be discouraged from running for office even if the proposed salary increase to $8,400 should be adopted.

Thorough Cleanup....

The approach taken by city, county and Texas Highway Dept. officials toward a thorough cleanup of old buildings, vacant, overgrown lots and junk or unclaimed cars will work.

The muscle to do the job has been brought together to clear, haul and cleanup everything that a good community cleanup can remove.

Most of this is a simple housekeeping chore which the community has never quite taken serious, out of indifference, lack of an approach or the means to bring it off.

The means and system are at hand. Volunteers joining with workers for city, county sanitation and highway department can do away with a lot of eyesores, junk cars and buildings or see that owners clear them in prescribed time.

Empetus comes from all these agencies realizing that cleaning up the center of the downtown is not enough. It needs to go to the city limits.

It looks like a great idea, and worth the effort, to us.

Remodeling Oldest...

Among other older buildings getting the new look of the new Cameron is the IOOF building at the 212 North Houston.

This is a significant change because the building dates from the 1880s, possibly one of the first brick buildings in Cameron. And beside that, The Cameron Herald once resided there.

Your Herald is planning to join the procession of downtown improvements, but it looks with nostalgia on the fact that an early home is now being updated after so many years.

We congratulate the building owners, the members of the IOOF lodge and others who are joining in the modernization of Cameron both inside and outside the urban renewal area.

If it is worth improving or updating, rebuild or remodel it. If it is not worth repair, tear it down or move it off.

Cameron is seeing a genuine reconstruction era of the first order. It is the thing to do and the time to do it.

"Low Down"
FROM THE
Congressional Record
By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

HOCUS-FOCUS OF SOCIAL SECURITY

REP. JACK R. MILLER (Iowa) "... Having supported social security increases with a cumulative total of 57 percent over the last 5 years, while the cost of living has increased 27 percent, I believe my concern for social security beneficiaries is well established.

"I am also the father of the change in the law under which social security benefits will be automatically increased to keep pace with increases in the cost of living. ... The law is now on the statute book -- where I have been trying to put it since 1963. ...

"However, the 20-percent increase was excessive and constituted a flagrant example of playing politics with our social security beneficiaries. ... I say 'flagrant' because the leadership of both the Senate and House decided to TACK IT ON AS AN AMENDMENT TO THE DEBT CEILING BILL -- A BILL THAT HAD TO BE PASSED BY MIDNIGHT, JUNE 30, OR ELSE OUR FEDERAL EMPLOYEES COULD NOT BE ABLE TO DRAW THEIR PAYCHECKS. ...

"The 20-percent across-the-board increase will be financed out of social security taxes. It will add to the already serious budget deficit, increase the tax burden by nearly $3 billion, and cause deepening resentment among the younger people who will pay most of the cost. ...

"By using this extra tax money for a blanket increase, those in the leadership have pretty well KILLED THE CHANCE TO COVER OTHER NEEDS -- THE WIDOWS WHO RECEIVE ONLY 82-1/2 PERCENT OF THE BENEFITS THEIR HUSBANDS WOULD HAVE RECEIVED, THE OPPORTUNITY TO EARN MORE WITHOUT BEING PENALIZED FOR DOING SO -- AND EXPANDED COVERAGE OF THE DISABLED. ...

"Part of what is wrong with our country today is that there are too many politicians who still think that the way to get elected is to promise all kinds of benefits without really caring about how the cost will be met. We are passing on a frightful debt to our children and grandchildren, and I, for one, do not wish to add to it. ...

"Of course, the EMPLOYER MUST MATCH THE EMPLOYEE TAX -- AND THIS WILL TEND TO BOOST PRICES TO CONSUMERS."

CRUMP'S COMMENT

The Church (Idaho) amendment to increase social security benefits 20-percent tied to the bill increasing the debt limit so Federal employees could be paid, placed the Senators in a "Heads I win, Tails you lose," position. It was shrewd politicking but economically questionable.

Descendants Of Slaves Visit Africa

By John Talbot

Three men from an unusual community in India have been visiting East Africa on what amounts to a pilgrimage to the past.

They are descendants of black slaves taken from East Africa to India 300 years ago.

The leader of the visiting delegation, Abdulla Bin Mbarak, told newsmen that some 7,000 Negroes of East African origin were now in India, most of them in the western state of Gujarat. They were mainly poor and economically backward.

The three-man delegation now wanted to study social and economic developments in Africa that might be useful to their community, he said.

"Our forefathers were brought to India as slaves in the 16th and 17th century and we consider East Africa as a shrine for pilgrimage where the bones of our ancestors lie," said the 76-year-old Abdulla.

Innovative Stage Director Discovers Success Formula

By Bruce Russell
Reuter Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD

Innovative stage director Tom O'Horgan would appear to have discovered a success formula in his rise from off-off-broadway to Broadway: Take the latest cultural craze and get it set to music.

O'Horgan is the director of the two highly successful musical shows "Hair" and "Jesus Christ Superstar."

But he offers no apologies for this theatrical exploitation of trends. He believes both pieces express something creative and constructive in society.

And he thinks innovative and controversial shows like these draw people into or back to the theater -- those people who have never gone or have gone once and were so bored that they never want to go again.

O'Horgan, his shoulder length hair making him look like a plump, over-age pageboy, is in Los Angeles to direct an open air production of "Superstar" on the universal studio lot. The man who launched "Hair" into a blaze of publicity by adding the nude scene at the end of the first act has added a few touches to this production like having some of the actors emerge through the mouth of a giant head of Christ.

That one caused some resentment among the set carpenters -- but like the nude scene -- if you've got a nude scene in a play you're looked upon as being old-fashioned nowadays -- it is likely to develop into a theatrical cliché.

O'Horgan says of his quest for original and exciting stage material: What is really difficult is to find those things that turn people on and not to fight those things that are creative and constructive in society when we have so few.

Films like "The Godfather" and "The French Connection" are very good, but people go there for pure titillation, nothing intellectual or spiritual.

It is just getting you off on a chase and a lot of blood. These things are cleansing forces which should be in our life, but I think a whole diet of that can unfocus a period.

O'Horgan who took over the off-broadway production of "Hair," revitalized it and brought it to Broadway, was previously director of the Cafe La Mama Troupe's world-traveled production Tom Paine.

Once he had cracked Broadway he soon became something of a phenomenon there by having four plays running at one time.

The other two were "Lenny," the biography of the

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Over the years and several times lately I've read about lawyers arguing that their clients couldn't get a fair trial in their hometowns because too much publicity had been given their crimes. Too many people know about the matter and a change of venue is required to get a fair and impartial jury, the lawyers say.

What they mean is that justice requires that their client be tried before 12 people who've never heard of the murder or the stealing or the defrauding or whatever it was he did. With or without a change of venue, sometimes it takes two or three months and thousands and thousands of dollars just to pick 12 people considered uninformed enough to serve.

I have figured out a way to avoid all this. What we need is a stable of people specially selected and sheltered to serve as jurors. It'd be their lifetime's work.

Under this system, when a trial begins, the judge pushes a button and 12 people come sliding out of a chute, their eyes blinded by the glare but their minds absolutely uncluttered. It would then be up to the lawyers on both sides to unroll the facts and implant whatever prejudices they can manage, ten minutes after the trial 12 people who never heard of you when you've got 12 already stored away in the courthouse.

Of course another way to handle the problem would be to abolish all newspapers and radio and television stations, but I won't go into that. I'm probably already in contempt of court as it is.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Letters

To make sure they meet the court's requirements, that is, that they are totally ignorant of what's going on, the professional jurors would be prohibited from reading any newspaper that isn't at least five years old. No television of course would be permitted, because even soap operas or football games the networks have a prejudicial, jury-destroying habit of interrupting a program to report news bulletins. They'd have to get their entertainment from phonograph records, checkers and dominoes. No chess. What sort of juror do you think Bobby Fischer would make? What an affront it'd be to the dignity of the court to have each juror hauling in his own chair and adjusting all the lights in the court room.

Dear Mr. Luecke:

May I thank you for the generous use you have made of the public service advertising on the Texas Travel Trails which we offered you earlier this year.

We have received a significant number of requests for the Trail pamphlets from your valued family of readers. Hopefully, they are using them to explore the fascinating byways that the routes open up.

Your assistance in helping more Texans enjoy holiday travel "at home" means a great deal to them. And to us.

County Agent's Notes

Recertification Is Complete

By Bill McCutchen

It's not yet official but according to Skip Nobles, Texas Animal Health Commission representative who has been working Milam County for the past several months, re-certification as a modified - certified brucellosis free area is complete for another three year period.

Some 2,000 plus head of cattle have been tested in recent months in qualifying the county. This slow and painful process of retesting will be necessary again in 3 years if "back tagging" is not re-instated locally. Wally Eldred, Cameron Livestock Auction, has stated several times that he would start back tagging again if this is what local producers want.

1. The submission of samples of suspected screw-worm cases to the Mission Lab for identification is the only way we have of knowing where screwworms are and in what numbers.

2. Surgery such as de-horning, castrating, and branding should be avoided until cold weather.

3. Animals should be inspected daily or as often as possible and all wounds, regardless of how small, should be treated with a herbicide and insect repellent.

4. Animals should be sprayed or dipped in one of the recommended insecticides when animals are gathered for any purpose.

COTTON INSECTS

The cotton boll weevil has been a real thorn in the flesh for cotton producers this year and at least one community is going to use a Diapause Weevil control program to cut down on the overwintering population.

July 28 - August 1st was the second predicted period for rapid increase in bollworm eggs in cotton. If you have late cotton and particularly if you have been on a late season control program I would urge you to watch for buildups of bollworms and tobacco budworms.

SCREWWORMS ACTIVE

Milam County is still recording screwworm cases almost daily and it seems that this is the rule rather than the exception as cases are being reported from all areas of Texas, as well as two-thirds of Oklahoma.

The National Screwworm Production facility at Mission has been at maximum production since the first of May this year.

Cooperation from the livestock industry must be continuous if the program is to be successful.

Texas Farmers To Gain With Grain To Russia

An extra $25 to $30 million over the next three years may be the benefit to Texas farmers as a result of the recent grain purchase agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union, according to Dr. Lonnie Jones of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"About 3.5 per cent of the $750 million sales agreement will go to Texas farmers," he said. "The percentage is smaller than some other agricultural states because Texas produces less than two per cent of the U.S. wheat and corn crop. These crops are expected to make up the bulk of the Soviet Union's requests."

The U. S. - Soviet trade pact was the largest single grain agreement ever signed, and deliveries are to begin immediately.

"The expanded market for sorghum, wheat, corn, barley, rye and oats should mean improved grain prices and lower surpluses," Jones noted. "If the Soviet Union should request more grain sorghum and less corn than expected, Texas farmers could profit even more," he predicted.

Sorghum requests are expected to amount to about six per cent of the total agreement. Texas produces one-third of the U. S. sorghum supply and will profit directly from any increased requests.

Jones also calculated that if the $750 million agreement is increased to $1 billion, as Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz has predicted, Texas grain producers will receive about $30 to $35 million. The assistant professor in Texas A&M University's Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology agreed with Secretary Butz that consumer prices for grain products should not increase as a result of the Soviet grain sale.

"Surpluses are on hand from last year's bumper crops, and this year's crop is predicted to be large. These supplies should meet most of the additional demand without reducing the quantity of grain available to the U. S. consumer," Jones pointed out.

Acres that grain farmers are allowed to farm may increase or remain stable, he added. In past years the Secretary of Agriculture has lowered acreage that can be farmed to restrict the grain supply and thereby maintain prices. An increase in the acreage allotment would allow farmers to produce more and increase their revenues.

"An added effect of the agreement will be the profit to the state's agri-business by the shipment of grain through Texas ports. In addition to Texas grain, much of that produced by Midwest grain states will pass through and be shipped from Texas. Revenue should come from both," Jones said.

SEVEREST RAINFALL

When 7 inches of rain fell within 30 minutes at Cambridge, Ohio, one day in July 1914, the air was so full of water that anyone stepping outdoors found it virtually impossible to breathe. It was one of the severest rainstorms ever recorded in the United States, the National Geographic Society says.

Some of the events of this year's Milam County 4-H Day Camp of July 25th in Cameron were the interesting tour and program, fun, watermelon, whip stitching and a barbecue supper.

Fifty three 4-H club members participated in this annual affair. These club members went on a tour of the county courthouse, the two banks in Cameron, the county jail and the Coca Cola Bottling Company facilities. Calf Crop Highest Since 1924... Sheep and Lambs on Feed Down 18 Per Cent... Crops Making Good Progress... Wind Erosion Down From Last Year... Screwworms Continue Out of Control... Vaccinate Horses Now for VEE...

The Texas calf crop this year is expected to be the highest since 1924, the Texas Crop and Livestock Service reports. A calf crop of 5,444,000 head is expected this year, this compares with 5,286,000 head last year.

Nationwide, the 1972 calf crop is expected to total 48,445,000. This is three percent more than 46,974,000 head produced in 1971. The 5,444,000 calves expected in Texas this year is more than twice the number expected in second ranking Missouri, Oklahoma is the third leading state in calf production.

SHEEP and lambs on feed in Texas as of July 1 is down 18 percent from a year ago. Sheep and lambs on feed totaled 150,000. Marketings of fed sheep during March through June at 226,000 head were 1,000 below the same period last year.

Sheep and lambs on feed are those intended for slaughter being fed a ration of grain or other concentrates or on succulent pastures and expected within the next three months to produce a carcass that will grade good or better.

SCREWWORMS continue to infest Texas livestock as well as wildlife and domesticated animals such as dogs. Little or no relief is expected from the screwworm infestations until cold weather sets in this fall and winter. Livestock owners are urged to continue to check their livestock regularly and to treat wounds on livestock for screwworm control.

LESS pollution from wind erosion has been noted this year compared to last year. Wind erosion in the Great Plains moved downward from damage totals a year ago.

Texas, with 1,145,150 acres, or about one-half of the total nationwide, reported the most wind erosion damage this season. Nationwide, land in condition to blow is reported at 3,269,060 acres this year compared to 6,693,695 acres for 1971.

Crops are continuing to make generally good progress throughout the state. Cotton is reported to be making excellent progress on the High Plains and Low Plains due to recent rains. The crop is doing nicely in the Blacklands and East Texas except for insect problems. Harvest in the Lower Rio Grande Valley has been delayed by rains.

Corn is making good growth in most areas of the state. Grain sorghum harvest is more than 20 percent complete. Yields have ranged from good to excellent in Blacklands and parts of south and south central Texas.

Soybeans and peanuts are making good to excellent progress. Rice harvest is making fair progress but rain has delayed harvest operations. Harvest for the state is nearing the 20 percent completion mark.

As for commercial fruit, peach harvest continues in most areas with Elberta varieties now in production. This year's peach crop shows good potential with most trees having moderate to heavy nut set.

VACCINATE now for control of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE) authorities recommend. VEE is now about 600 miles from the Texas border. Several hundred head of horses have died from VEE in Mexico. VEE appears to be moving northward in a pattern similar to last year when the disease invaded Texas.

Farm Safety Week Cites Protective Equipment

"Protective Equipment-Your Defense Against Injury" is the theme of National Farm Safety Week. "Agriculture is the nation's third most dangerous occupation," points out Wayne Keese, agricultural worker may need more types of protective equipment than the average construction worker.

President Richard Nixon has proclaimed the last week of this month as National Farm Safety Week and urges "all persons engaged in agriculture and all those allied with agriculture to take appropriate measures to reduce the number and severity of accidents." He added that the nation should "strive to bring the technology of safety to agriculture as successfully as we have brought it to the technology of production."

National Farm Safety Week is sponsored each year by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Plum Perfect Plum Pie Please

By Christine Laws
Co. Home Demonstration Agent

Among the highlights of summer are the fresh, delicious plums on the market. Plums are an ancient cultivated fruit. Seed pits of plums were found in the Swiss Lake Dwellers' ruins. They still grow in most areas of Europe and are one of the wider distributed fruits in America. Colonists from various areas in Europe brought the plum with them to this country. Monks in the Spanish missions in California were growing plums as early as 1792.

Plums vary in color, appearing in skin shades of green, purple, blue, yellow and red. Flesh color also varies.

When you buy fresh plums, choose those that are soft enough to yield to slight pressure and that are full colored for the variety. Softening at the tip is a good indication of maturity. Sliced and sweetened, fresh plums make some good, simple fruit desserts. Sanata Rosas are especially delicious when prepared this way if you peel them first. Elephant Hearts can be peeled, too, but it's best to leave the skin on other plum varieties.

A tempting Plum Pie can be made from fresh plums. Pastry for double-crust, 9-inch pie
1 quart sliced, fresh plums
1 to 2 cups sugar
1/3 cup quick-cooking tapioca or 4 tbsps. cornstarch
Dash of salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tbsp. butter

Roll out half the dough on a lightly floured board, then fit dough into the pie pan. Put sliced plums into a bowl and add sugar. Then add tapioca or cornstarch, salt and cinnamon. Turn plum mixture into the pie shell. Dot top with about 1 tablespoon butter.

Roll out remaining pastry and make top crust or cut in strips to make a lattice top. Flute the edge of the pie crust. Bake in a 375-degree oven for about 45 minutes, or until crust is golden brown and fruit is tender.

PLUM JAM

4 lbs fresh plums
1/2 cup water
1 box (1-3/4 oz.) powdered pectin
8 cups water
Wash plums, remove pits and chop. Place in a deep six-quart kettle with water. Cover and simmer for five minutes. Remove cover, add powdered pectin and bring to a rapid boil, stirring rapidly all the while.

Add sugar and bring to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil one minute; then remove from heat. Skim off foam and continue skimming for five minutes to clear slightly. Ladle into hot, sterilized jars. Seal at once. Makes about 12 one-half pint jars.

Tomato Tuna Stacks

What a great thing it is to have fresh, red-ripe, juicy tomatoes in good supply at market. Serve a platter full of tomato slices for an easy way to deal with salad. For a fancier fresh tomato dish, try Tomato Tuna Stacks, a fine luncheon or supper idea. Tomatoes are sliced, each slice piled with tuna salad and stacked. Fun, thrifty and nourishing, tomatoes have excellent nutrition. One medium size tomato provides 57% of the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C for an adult for a day, more than a fourth of the vitamin A and a twelfth of the iron, but only 35 calories.

Tomato Tuna Stacks

1 can (6 1/2 or 7 ounces) tuna
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup crumbled blue cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon minced garlic
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chopped fresh onion
6 fresh tomatoes
Chicory

Drain tuna and flake. Mix with celery, cheese, salt, garlic, pepper, mayonnaise and onion. Remove stem ends of tomatoes and cut into 3 crosswise slices. Put together in layer cake fashion, using tuna mixture as filling. Serve on a bed of chicory. Makes 6 servings.

Beef Roasts On 'Good Buys' List

"If you're looking for food values, check local markets this week," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

For best meat values, Mrs. Clyatt advised checking beef sections for featured items. In general look for round steaks and roasts, chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef and liver.

According to the home demonstration agent, retail pork prices are gradually easing upward. Price tags generally mark hams, picnics, end cut chops and loin roasts and shoulder roasts and steaks as best pork values.

"Fryer chickens make an excellent choice, price-wise," the agent said, "even though prices have advanced some in recent weeks. For economy and good eating, invite friends over for backyard barbecued chicken."

Mrs. Clyatt added that egg prices range about the same as last year. Grade A large sizes offer the best combination of economy and quality.

"Fresh fruit and vegetables in good supply at the most reasonable prices number bananas, cantaloupes, watermelons, plums, peaches, grapes, nectarines, potatoes and head lettuce. Others are cabbage, carrots, tomatoes, cucumbers, corn, bell peppers, green onions and purple hull and black-eyed peas."

Dutch Authorities Study Raising Old Sunken Ship

By Humphrey Van Loo

THE HAGUE

Dutch authorities are studying the possibility of raising the wreck of an 18th-century merchant ship which lies under the sands off the British town of Hastings on the English Channel.

The 700-ton merchantman, called the Amsterdam, was the biggest Dutch East Indiaman of her day. Loaded with supplies and equipment, she could prove to be an invaluable record of her period.

The Dutch ministry of culture is working on an assessment of the costs of raising the Amsterdam -- put provisionally at the equivalent of nearly $3.6 million.

And a campaign is already under way to interest Dutch businessmen in the project.

The Amsterdam, built in the city which provided her name in 1748, was lost on her maiden voyage. According to the records she set sail from Dn Helder in Holland Jan. 8, 1749, with a crew of 335, carrying extensive supplies for the headquarters of the Dutch East India Company in Batavia (now the city of Jakarta, Indonesia).

But she ran into a storm off the British coast, hit a sandbank in Pevensey Bay and lost her rudder. After the ship drifted for several days her master, Captain Willem Klump, beached her at low tide on the sands of Hastings, where she sank and lies today.

The Dutch promotion magazine, Holland Herald, is campaigning to get the Amsterdam raised. Vernon Leonard, the magazine's managing editor, said experts believe it ranks second in importance only to the remains of the Swedish warship Wasa -- a 17th-century vessel raised from Stockholm harbor in 1961 and put on exhibition.

Leonard said his magazine was trying to promote the return of the Dutch ship to Amsterdam by 1975 to coincide with the city's 700th anniversary.

"We have sent 500 letters to top Dutch businessmen," he said. "We have stressed that Swedish industry brought up the Wasa."

Noting that the Wasa was a warship, he said: "The Amsterdam is the only merchantman of her kind in the world. And she is fully loaded."

"What is interesting archaeologists is that everything will be in place inside her, for she went down straight. Even Wasa tipped on her side on the bottom," Leonard said.

When the Amsterdam's crew waded ashore they took all the coins and silver from the ship but left everything else, according to Leonard.

In 1969 workmen laying a pipe across Hastings beach began to unearth cargo and artifacts with their mechanical digger.

The haul included bottles of French wine, five bronze cannon, cargo wrapped in cloth and held by the original brass pins, tobacco pipes, horn combs, an ivory fan, a flute, brass candlesticks, and the skull of a cow intended for slaughter during the trip.

Experts believe the Amsterdam is 80 per cent intact. There are thought to be some 12,000 bottles of French wine aboard. Some dug out and tasted have proved sour. But experts think the vessel will provide an incomparable record of how such a ship was equipped and packed.

Plane schedules to

are not a state secret, but the travel agency clerk may have been too lazy to look them up.

Intourist has a monopoly of handling foreign tourists arrangements, but in the capitalist world such approach would certainly drive it quickly out of business.

Traveling by road also has its hazards in the Soviet Union, although conditions have improved.

Ten years ago, the incautious motorist could run into major problems if he did not carry extra gasoline.

One of the most depressing experiences was to drive into a service station when the fuel gauge was already showing empty, only to be told that there was no gas of the appropriate grade for another 60 miles.

With the production of more Soviet vehicles, there are more gas stations, easily distinguishable by the line-ups of long-distance trucks that form outside them.

But there are other hazards. In some places foreigners are not allowed to stop. One journalist halted briefly on the road to Helsinki and walked into a wood, only to find when he returned to his car that a police patrolman was waiting.

He was not allowed to move on until he had signed a statement admitting he had stopped in a forbidden zone and "hidden behind a tree."

According to official figures, about two million foreign tourists come to this country every year, three-fifths of them from the Soviet Union's communist allies.

The majority are shepherded about by the busload, as tourists are everywhere, and if they are lucky they will not run up against bureaucratic snags.

Some go away delighted to have seen the splendors of the Moscow Kremlin, Leningrad's Hermitage Museum, or the ancient central Asian city of Samarkand.

Others are appalled by show service in restaurants or bureaucratic delays in dealing with tickets. And the more the traveler tries to do on his own, the more he is likely to have to cope with these problems.

French Workers Enjoy Flexible Working Hours

By William Robinson

PARIS

A secretary takes two hours off in the morning to get her hair done without asking her boss for permission.

A working mother leaves work early to take her son to the dentist without telling her employer.

An office worker sleeps late one day simply because he didn't feel like getting up and his boss says nothing.

All three people benefit from flexible working hours, a system that has been tried elsewhere and is now beginning to catch on in France.

At least 50 firms in this country are experimenting with the scheme, and a report on it is to be submitted soon to the labor ministry, which will then take up a position for or against it.

PRAISING SYSTEM

But company directors whose firms have adopted the system are already unanimous in praising it. At a recent conference on the flexible hour system held here, not one voice was heard against it.

The way it works is simple. All employees of a firm have to be present at work simultaneously for either five, six or seven fixed hours. But outside of these hours, they can come to work when they please, take a long lunch-break if they wish or go home early, as long as they make up the time later and work a certain number of hours a week or month.

Under this system there are no more time-clocks to be punched, no worry about oversleeping or missing the train and failing to get to work on time.

The company directors said they all noted a better atmosphere in their firms after adopting the flexible hours system. One said it gave his employees a greater sense of responsibility and led to better relations between workers and their superiors.

Another director said the system was highly appreciated by women and had led to a reduction of labor union tension.

FEWER JAMS

The flexible hours system also has advantages to the community -- fewer cars on the road during rush hours, meaning less traffic jams. Some company directors also said their employees were having fewer accidents going to and from work under the scheme.

Whether the system will be adopted by other French firms is likely to depend on the decision of the labor ministry to back it or not.

Proponents of the system point out that in West Germany 3,000 enterprises use it, and experts predict it will be applied to 30 per cent of Germans by 1975. Unlike the French, the Germans have applied it to industrial concerns, the experts noted.

A study group which is drawing up the report for the labor ministry here noted that with ingenuity and good will the system can be adopted by more enterprises than was at first thought.

"It is obvious that there is a worldwide meat shortage, of which we in Australia should be able to take advantage," says the president of Queensland States United Graziers Association, E.P.S. Roberts.

"At the moment, we are in the fortunate position that we are likely to have more meat for export than has been the case in previous years.

"This surplus is the result of a build up in cattle numbers owing to the poor returns from other primary industries, particularly wool and perhaps to a lesser extent, grain."

Packing houses ability to handle larger amounts of export market processing will mean slow shipments.

The U. S. open door policy, at least for this year, brought a surge to beef company stocks listed on the Australian stock exchanges.

Inflation could however, adversely affect the breeders' purse by drying up overseas markets through dwindling returns, according to Roberts.

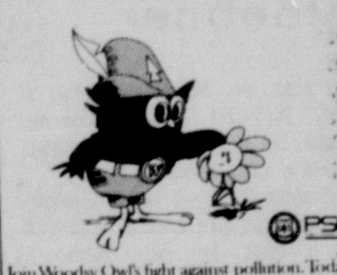

"Unless this is curbed, we are going to find it quite impossible to produce meat at a price which will enable us to hold the overseas markets we have gained," he says.

New markets developed over the past few years could not be abandoned since the American free market might only last this year.

"We have always felt that quotas should not have been imposed, as generally our meat sent to America is complementary to that produced by the American cattleman," says Roberts.

"Our exports, for the most part, are of manufacturing meat. This means our exports could be used in conjunction with the U. S. surplus fat cattle, particularly in the hamburger and sausage trade."

The birds, animals & flowers are dying to tell us... "Give a hoot, don't pollute."

Soviet Union Travel Difficult

By Andrew Waller

MOSCOW

Patience and persistence are two of the most essential requirements for traveling in the Soviet Union.

For members of a large group it may seem simple -- the Soviet system prefers to do things by collectives -- but for the individual traveler or the tour organizer it is a different story.

Bureaucratic torpor, and regulations so involved that those who apply them become lost in the maze, can make a journey exhausting before it even starts.

Sightseers Criticized By Britons

By Robert Evans

LONDON

Are Britons really becoming a nation of insensitive, sensation-loving sheep?

The question is a major theme of lively controversy in the press, radio and television, sparked off by the behavior of thousands following two serious disasters here.

"Unfortunately ghouls and sightseeing vultures" are only two of the more polite epithets flung at the thousands who flocked to view a rail crash in south London on June 11 and a plane crash exactly a week later.

Criticism of the apparently morbid interest shown by the public in death and disaster mounted particularly after the crowd reaction to the crash of the passenger jet near London Airport, killing about 118 people on board.

Thousands of cars jammed roads leading to the scene as their occupants stopped to watch ambulance men and police scrambling among the wreckage for possible survivors.

Michael Heseltine, Britain's aviation minister, who had to walk some three miles to the crash site because his car could not get through, expressed the feelings of many rescuers, letting fly with the now-famous phrase "unfortunate ghouls," to describe the onlookers.

A policeman, struggling to clear a way for ambulances to get through commented bitterly: "I wish I had a severed arm or a leg to show these people. That's what the ghouls seem to want."

Some journalists and television commentators noted with shock that many spectators had children with them and were eating sandwiches as though they were out on a picnic.

Germans Renovating Old Homes

A new vogue for once-despised Victorian architecture appears to be catching on in Munich, the host city for this year's Olympic games.

In an officially-sponsored campaign to brighten up the city for the games, many homeowners have restored the ornate stucco facades of apartment houses dating from Germany's so-called "Founder Years" of 100 years ago.

Of the 4,000 buildings from this period which survived Allied bombing in World War II and subsequent demolition, 1,500 have been studiously renovated with all their elaborate plasterwork. Many of these were scheduled to be knocked down as old-fashioned eyesores while others had been stripped of their decorated stucco in a vain attempt to modernize them.

The surprising Maverick. It's a comfortable, 6-cylinder American compact that's actually priced below the Volkswagen 113.

If you can afford a Volkswagen 113 -- or almost any little import -- you can afford a Maverick. Look:

FORD MAVERICK	2-door	6-cylinder	$2,140.*
VW 113 (Super Beetle)	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,159.*
TOYOTA COROLLA 1600	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,109.*
DATSUN PL 510	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,306.*

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for 2-door models. Excludes dealer preparation charges if any, destination charges, title and taxes.

NOTE: People ask us how we can afford to offer a roomy, 6-cylinder compact at about the same price as the little imports.

First, we've been making small cars since 1908. Experience helps. Second, we haven't changed Maverick -- except for mechanical improvements -- since we first introduced it. That kind of continuity helps to control costs.

Third, recent currency revaluations and devaluations have helped restore the competitive stance of American manufacturers.

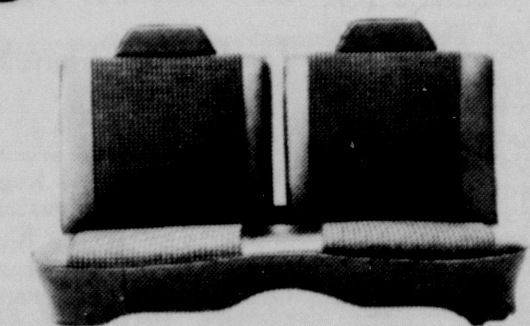

Most little imports give you 4-cylinder engines. Maverick gives you a 6-cylinder engine.

It's smooth. It's reliable. It lets you accelerate into turnpike traffic with confidence and hold your own on steep hills. And it delivers surprisingly good gas mileage.

A good car for long trips.

Maverick's rear track is 2.9" wider than Volkswagen's. Its wheelbase is 7.7" longer. There's a bit more weight, too. By themselves, these differences aren't very big -- but they can add up to a big difference in the way Maverick drives and handles the open road.

Better idea for safety... buckle up!

Ample room inside.

Maverick's front seat, for example: over 8" more shoulder room than Volkswagen 113. There's no wasted space inside Maverick. At the same time, none of that small-car crowded feeling.

Maintenance: Even simpler, more convenient than the little imports.

VW, for example, recommends normal service every 3000 miles or three months, whichever comes first. On Maverick, it's 6000 miles or six months. So Maverick's recommended service interval is twice as long as Volkswagen's.

We also designed Maverick to be a simple machine to care for. In fact, we've even prepared a manual which tells you how to do many maintenance jobs yourself.

One more convenience: there are over 5,600 Ford dealers in the country. VW has about 1,100.

COFFEE, TEA AND CORNPLASTERS

There aren't many of us left who remember Sixbey's General Store. It was more than a store; it was a gathering place, a news bureau, a bright spot in a boy's summer afternoon.

You would come in from the hot dusty street, and the shaded store was cool. Immediately you encountered a tantalizing blend of scents — apples, licorice, spices and smoked ham. Grown-up conversation enhanced your feeling of excitement as they viewed and reviewed town happenings. You always took a long time to decide between a chocolate or a lemon drop, so that this exciting visit could be prolonged.

Our town has changed since then. For those of us whose memories linger in Sixbey's Store, it hardly seems the same place.

Yet one thing's the same. At the corner of Elm and Main, St. Mark's steeple still points skyward. Man's need for God never changes. And the Church remains constant as it teaches the truths of God's love and presence.

Sports Murray-go-Round

By Tom Murray

COME HOME RUSTY, MIKE, JOE...

The 1972 Houston Astros are exciting. National League contenders. And, we might add, they're all we've got.

But, have you contemplated the team Houston might have had today but for a few questionable transactions? Like, say, add Catcher Jerry Grote, the Mets' former starter for the National League All-Stars. Then pick up Pitchers Mike Cuellar, Baltimore's consistent 25-game winner, and Dave Giusti, perhaps the best relief thrower in the game at Pittsburgh. Throw in John Mayberry, Kansas City's slugging young first baseman, whose stats rival those of Lee May.

Call back Joe Morgan, the little guy whose slashing line drive won the '72 All-Star game for the National League.

Yoe Band Rehearsals To Open

By Marilyn Hauk

The Yoe High Band will begin its summer rehearsals August 7 according to band director Donald Czapinski. Practices will begin at 7 p.m. and continue until 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

The first session will consist of going over a handbook of rules for the coming year and the election of officers for the 1972-73 year. Instruments should be brought to practice on Tuesday night at which time playing will begin.

Mr. Czapinski plans to spend the first week inside the band hall practicing the music for the coming year. After that the rehearsals will be divided into playing and marching.

"The 101 member Yoe High Marching Band will play music with a lot of swing and a lot of rock," reports Czapinski. Some of the songs included are "Get It On," "Son of a Preacher Man," "Shanendoe," and the "Budweiser Song".

Granddaughters Win Slot In Nationals

Martha and Mary Champion of Dallas, granddaughters of Frank Stanislaw of Cameron, will represent Dallas in the women's division of the 26-mile bicycle road race.

Martha, who will be 17 this month, won the state crown in July while her 20-year-old sister finished second.

The national bicycle championships are held this month in Wisconsin. The Champion girls are part of a group of four Dallasites earning a trip to the nationals.

"The competition at the nationals will be the toughest I've faced," said Martha. A recent graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School, she took up competitive bicycling a little over a year ago when some friends of her sister got her interested in it.

Illegal Rent Increases Subject To Penalties

Landlords who evict tenants in retaliation for protesting allegedly illegal rent increases to the IRS are violating Economic Stabilization regulations and face possible criminal or civil penalties, R. L. Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue for southern Texas, said today.

If the government proves retaliation in court, the landlord may be subject to a $5,000 fine for each violation, a civil penalty of $2,500 for each violation, or an injunction to prohibit future retaliatory acts.

Phinney noted that the effectiveness of enforcement of rent controls depends primarily on tenant initiative, aided and encouraged by Government action.

"Eviction of a tenant, who has complained to the government about illegal rental increases, would not only punish the tenant for making a complaint, which he has a constitutional right to make, but would stand as a warning to others that they dare not be so bold. Retaliatory evictions under such circumstances would be a perversion of the Congressional purpose in enacting the Economic Stabilization Act," Phinney said.

Tenants who receive notices of eviction after complaining of a rent increase should contact their IRS office, continue to pay rent and keep records of payments thought to be in excess of those permitted by Stabilization regulations.

CARD OF THANKS-

I would like to express my great appreciation to Dr. Perrin, Father John Geiser, and the nurses and staff of St. Edward Hospital while I was sick. All of the visitors and lovely cards also played a great part in my recovery and I would like to thank everyone for their kindness. Thanks Again.

Beef Porterhouse steak is sure to please, provided that you, as outdoor chef, are wise in the ways of the grill. Temperature and timing are of paramount importance when broiling over charcoal just as they are when using the range broiler. Moderate heat, not high, is the secret of a juicy and tender steak. Timing and attention assure the degree of doneness he desires. Steaks cut 1 to 2 inches thick are best for broiling. Start the fire 30 to 40 minutes in advance so the briquettes will be covered with gray ash.

Place steaks on grill over moderate heat. Steaks cut 1 inch thick should be placed 2 to 3 inches from the heat; steaks cut 2 inches thick, 3 to 5 inches from the heat. When one side is browned, turn, season with salt and pepper and finish cooking on the second side. Season as desired. Steaks cut 1 inch thick require approximately 15 to 20 minutes for rare, 20 to 25 minutes for medium; steaks cut 2 inches thick, 30 to 35 minutes for rare, 40 to 45 minutes for medium.

Frozen Burger Assets
Does your ground beef supply for burgers disappear in face of brisk summer demand? A stock of ground beef patties in the freezer saves extra trips to the store. For convenience in meeting individual and varying demands, shape ground beef in patties and securely wrap each separately in foil or freezer film. Or place two layers of waxed paper or foil between each patty (for easy separation), place in transparent freezer bag, seal and freeze. Burgers can be cooked from the frozen state; just place on broiler rack a bit further from the heat and allow additional time.
